Happy Caving.

FROM THE EDITOR:

I hope that everyone is enjoying the record heat spells we have been having. The convention was hot and as Gralin would say the stupidity (humidity) was very high. I am in a hurry to get this issue out as I started late because of the 1994 NSS convention and my job . Those of us that attended got to see a lot of old friends and spent too much money. Some of us had a little too much to drink and others were designated caver drivers. I have more than memories and souvenirs to remember the convention by, I have about 200 chigger and tick bites that remind me. See you at the meeting, Bill Bentley

PBSS Meeting:

The next meeting of the PBSS will be on July 12th, 1994, at 7:00 PM, at Murry's Delicatessen which is located at 3211 West Wadley. It's easy to find because Murry's is located on the South side of the Wadley River, in the strip shopping center, East of Midkiff Rd. and Texas Burger. The meeting starts at 7:00 PM sharp and the usual caver gossip and chow down starts at 6:30 PM and is optional.. Your attendance will ransack planning and packing,

we left Midland on Friday morning at 10:30, Gralin and myself. Poor old Walter had to work and would meet us later that night. We rented an RV

moter home and if not for it

we would have surely perished in the heat and humidity. We arrived at Amazing Maze cave at 12:30 in the afternoon and found an absence of the lines of cavers waiting to enter the cave. Of course this stands to reason since it wasn't

mentioned in any NSS

publication and there had been only one phone inquiry. None the less we manned our post in the heat. We set up the RV and sweltered in the 104 degree heat. The air conditioner barely put a dent in the heat.

After an hour or so we walked across the highway to the Ste.

Genevieve Winery and inquired about the tours. They told us Saturdays at 10:AM.

Then we walked to a windmill to check it out and back to the

RV. At 7:30 that evening we decided the dining establishments in Ft. Stockton looked inviting. So off we went and learned that those little pins in the refridgerator were very important as we had dumped the entire contents in the floor including a softdrink which spewed its sticky goo on everything.

Arriving in town we decided to try the "Steakhouse" and had chicken fried steak and chicken strips.

The salads were great and we got back to AM cave at 8:30 PM and it got dark. We listened to the OJ Simpson chase saga on the radio since the tv reception was nil. At 10:30 PM Walter arrived we listened some more and run

the battery down on the RV.

At midnight we turned in and the air conditioner worked great since the sun was not beating down on us.

Day 2, Saturday June 18th,

1994. It was uneventful, we eat breakfast at 8:30 AM and went to the winery only to discover there was no 10:30

AM tour. Then at 12:30 I went for a desert walk armed with only my quart water bottle. The 100 degrees seemed cooler than the 104 degrees the day before. I walked about 7 miles, up the mesa, across, down to a pipeline crossing and to a windmill, which the tank soon became a swimming pool.

The water was cool and felt really good.

Trip Reports: And other lies and stories...

Montgomery Gypsum Cave

by Gralin Coffin.

Location: Terrell County, Texas

(Middle of nowhere).

Present for trip: Gralin Coffin, trip leader, Bill Bentley, Walter Feaster, Noel Pando, Noel Pando Jr., Ken Kamon, Rick Day, all of PBSS fame, Pat Geery, Austin, Dan Hansen, North (rowdy) Colorado and David Williams, someplace. This trip was a scheduled "day trip". Wednesday June 22nd, during the 1994 NSS convention held at Brackettville (Ft. Clark Springs), Texas during the week of June 20 - 24. Besides the above mentioned PBSSers, there had been a total of 15 people that signed up for this trip and although there was just 3 out-of-towners that made it, it was agreed that those that didn't show up were the ones that lost out.

This cave has some of if not all of the best "gypsum speleothems" in Texas.

The trip went great, with only the usual "couple of hitches." and least forget YES it was HOT! Don't believe me? Just ask Noel how hot the pipe across the entrance was when he put his arm across it as he got to the surface. The Noels, Ken and Rick so graciously went down to Montgomery on Tuesday night and rigged the cave making our trip into and out of the cave an easy one.

Once we had all reached the bottom we spent of time looking at the numerous gypsum speleothems. Although its been stated before, I must say it again. This cave has some of if not all of the best "gypsum speleothems" in Texas. They are truly great. After spending some quality time inspecting the gypsum area and mulling over a few speleopolitical topics we devided into groups; those that thought they would (tour the remainder of the cave, including a nice chimney and a squeeze) and those that thought they wouldn't. Noel Jr. led the way with yours truly right behind him.

Rick sat on a snake. This time no rattles though.

The further we went the more I wondered when the little guy (by the way he ain't little except maybe when compared to big Noel) was going to lead me into something that only he knew how to get out of.

when we got to the top of the chimney and Noel Jr. climbed on up and told me "one of those hole goes back to a crack that you can crawl back to and see a big chandler", I thought this was his big chance as he pointed to the holes and said "I think it's the right one." But alas, he's too good a kid or maybe he thought that an old fart like me might kill him if he lead me up the wrong preverbial creek. Meanwhile back at the Bat cave, whoops wrong story. Back at the bottom of the last drop Bill and Walter were getting ready to get back to the top. I knew that it had to be Miller time or else Walter wouldn't be breathing on Bill's foot gibbs as he started up the rope. I knew there wouldn't be much refreshment left if I left Walter on the top too long by himself, so I proceeded up the rope right after him. the rest followed with Rick and Noel bringing up the rear and the rope. Preciate it guys.

a good time was had by all and all of us conventioners agreed that it was definitely worth the 3.5 hour drive. oh yea I didn't elaborate on the "couple of hitches". Briefly, Pat had a blowout on a rear tire of his baby pickup (the rocks get sharp out there) with no spare except, you guessed it a baby "pretend" spare. The cave gods were with him (and us, we'd of had to him home if it hadn't made it.) But through the worst part of the trip in and all of the trip out the squirrelly little donut made it. The other hitch? Nothing really new for this cave, Rick sat on a snake. This time no rattles though.

Side note: For those of you that didn't make it to the convention, you missed a real good time and a hell of a experience.

Editors note: It was a shame that so

Convention Reports continued from page 2.

I Made it back by 3:00 in the afternoon and by 7:00 that evening we were all headed to Ft. Stockton and Alfredo's Mexican Food Restaurant and had mezgin food. Walter eat my chili relleno. We got back to the RV at 9:30 PM and talked a while, fiddled with the generator and I read all about a flesh eating virus in the Weekly World News. We went to bed at 12:30 AM.

Day 3, Sunday June 19th,1994. We awoke at 7:45 and had the usual breakfast and coffee. We departed AM cave at 9:30 AM convention bound. A quick stop for lunch in Del Rio put us arriving at Campers World RV Park at 3:10 PM.

The NCO Club was set up as a snack bar and dining facility in Ft. Clark Springs. The registration was at a place called Shafter Hall, we registered and spent the evening visiting with friends and attended the Howdy party planning meeting.

At 8:30 PM we went back to the RV and was visited by Steve Franks and James Cullen. Day 4, Monday June 20th, 1994. We got up, eat breakfast and went to the civic center and hauled porta potties and chairs and tables to the Alamo Movie Village. We helped set up everything for the big Howdy Party. Around 5:00 PM the busses started coming in and then Walter, Gralin, and myself were drafted to serve food to 1500 some odd caver types. I was chosen to serve "Beans" next to Orin T., Walter had the Spanish rice covered, while Gralin dished out brisket to unsuspecting Yankee cavers. After 2 hours of serving we finally got to eat. The 98 degree temperature and the sight of all that food, none of us eat very much. We milled around and visited. I couldn't drink beer as was the designated caver driver, but Walter and Gralin could have all they wanted. We then moseyed up to the Alamo Movie set and watched a reenactment of the Alamo Battle. As dark fell the cavers danced to the "People's Choice" band. There was only moonlight to see by, however I did manage to visit with Slim Baxter, Pat Copeland, Nila Dennis and others. At 10:30 PM the beer went dry and by 11:00 most of the crowd had left by bus. After we left we made a short visit to Martha's rented duplex and then home to the RV.

We worked our "Butts" off in the near 100 degree sun.

Day 5 Tuesday June 21st 1994. (1st day of Summer) We woke up late, eat breakfast and headed back to Alamo Movie Village to help clean up. Since we were busy cleaning up we missed our trip to the Devils Sinkhole. So my journey

THIS IS KRIEDLER FUNERAL HOME'S 24 HOUR NUMBER
ASK FOR "CAVE RESCUE" AND JOHN KRIEDLER

HOWLING AT THE MOON COLUMN BY BILL BENTLEY

From the Feaster Institute of Science and Research comes this important scientific discovery. A carefully conducted test has shown that Africanized (Killer) bees do prefer Zima over any brand of beer, but then again what do they know. Long time PBSSer Steve Franks (who's claim to fame is the discover of "F" cave) has a new squeeze that has been reported to have beaten him in several go cart races. Rose Laman has been selected as the official PBSS artist after her very good work on the 0-9 Well cave sign. Walter showed sample pictures at the last meeting. What you didn't see them?, well you should have been there. Walter now charges a fee to see them. During the last work trip at Carlsbad Caverns, Noel Pando and crew spent 4 hours in Spider cave cleaning the white formations using water under pressure. His band of 3 also spent 6 hours in Ogle cave flagging trails from the main chamber to the mine shaft. I hear they are going to go professional. Orientation is not Ken Kamons middle name as it was reported that he got lost on Three Mile Hill and a half a dozen other places while reading the Weekly World News and driving under the influence of the dreaded "Cave Fever". A source very close to Allen Laman has told The Hole News that Allen has started a fully stocked NSS library in his bathroom, and is expected to be checking out books soon. That is if he will ever come out, right Rose. Bill Bentley fell off the wagon and was run over by it at the pool party at the NSS convention. No one knows what he promised Martha.

CAVE?

We worked our "Butts" off in the near 100 degree sun. We finished our labors about 3:30 that afternoon and went back to the RV for showers and rest. later we with some free time on our hands went to the convention site and viewed the various salons and exhibits. It felt good to not be working. Some of us bought too much stuff while others visited the various sessions. That evening we had Lasagna for supper and I rested while Gralin and Walter went to Green's cave to see the bat flight. They came in late and we talked about the trip to Montgomery's Gypsum cave (See trip report on this on page 3.) tomorrow and we went to sleep. Day 6, Wednesday June 22nd, 1994

After returning to Bracketville from the cave trip at 6:30 PM we barbecued steaks on the grill and had the red wine that Walter had been saving for us. It made the steaks taste delicious. Walter had bought this from the restaurant in Ft. Stockton earlier in the week. At 8:30 we headed to the Ft. Clarks Springs pool area where there was rumored to be a party. Well after 5 days of smelling Walter I was ready to kick my heels up and howl at the moon. They had a band playing and "Free BEER". I got drunk! and I don't remember much after that, so if you want to find out more you

Day 7, Thursday June 23rd, 1994 After last nights party we all slept untill 9:30 in the morning and had our usual breakfast of sausage burritos or bisquit and egg with sausage. We spent the day at the various speleovenders and bought more caver stuff. I visited the pool area after lunch, but it wasn't very crowded. Gralin and Walter went to the computer cave mapping session and I found them there and caught the last of the session. I walked the 1.5 miles back to the RV and rested and at 6:00 PM the duo showed up and we barbequed boneless chicken breasts. At 8:30 that evening we left for NSS photo salon and slide show. It was good, but I have seen some better ones in the past. (personal opinion) After it was over we went to the RV and then Ken showed up. After a while he went with Gralin and they brought back Martha and we sat around outside and talked until 2:00 AM. while Martha drank her cheap wine that she had purchased in great quantities.

Day 8, Friday June 24th, 1994 Last day of the convention. Ken came by and woke everyone up at 8:00 AM and told us of his memorable experience sleeping in the floor at Martha's duplex. We let him watch us eat breakfast. He had asparagus in the can, cold! Yuucch!

At 9:30 we left for the various sessions, salons, and videos. At 11:30 I walked back to the RV and rested, eat lunch and then made the 2:00 to 4:00 PM Newsletter Editors Workshop presented by Dave McClurg. It was interesting and I learned a lot.

They had a band playing and "Free BEER" I got Drunk!

That evening around 6:00 or so we showed up for the big banquet and had chicken fried steak with all the trimmings including red wine. Pat Copeland and crew did a fantastic job with the decorating and the food serving. If you should see Pat any time soon, then a big Texas style thanks are in order. After the meal we went to see the awards being given out and as usual it was not very well attended. Martha was feeling no pain and her daughter Jill was a little bit concerned or embarrassed, I couldn't tell for sure. We turned in and the next morning I caught a ride with Ken back to Midland and arrived about 2:30 in the afternoon.

Carlsbad Caverns News:

Volunteer Harry Burgess is now helping out at the Cave Resource Office and is already helping out Dale and Jason. The PBSS gives Harry a big welcome. He recently helped on a work trip at Spider and Ogle caves.

The rock hauling will resume at Carlsbad Caverns and there should be a trip planned soon. Chuck Anderle is the man to contact if you are interested call 915-685-3119.

News and Tidbits:

On May 27th, 1994 Noel and Noel Jr. Pando gave a 2 hour presentation at Zavala Elementary on caving and speleology to 372 students, 2nd to 5th grades and reports that he has received letters of thanks from all of them. Rumor has it that they were seen in a yellow bus at the NSS convention Howdy Party?
